PREFACE

I am pleased to present this index as a tool for those planners, researchers, historians, and/or negotiators who will have an interest in the unique experiment that was UNPAAERD. This programme came into being at the Thirteenth Special Session of the General Assembly, which concluded on 1 June 1986 with the Assembly unanimously adopting the United Nations Programme of Action for African Economic Recovery and Development 1986-1990 (resolution S-13/2, annex). This plan represented a unique agreement between African states and the international community, with both sides committing themselves to specific and far-reaching efforts to accelerate Africa's development process. It was the first such programme ever adopted by the United Nations, and it created major expectations of better prospects for Africa.

It is our fervent hope that the lessons learned from this experience will inspire the international community to launch new and more effective efforts at combating the economic and social development problems of Africa. In this regard, the 46th session of the United Nations General Assembly unanimously adopted the New Agenda for the Development of Africa in the 1990s (UN-NADAF, General Assembly Resolution 46/151) on 18 December 1991. If anything, UNPAAERD taught us that the international community must come together as one. It must give immediacy, political impulse, and the resources necessary for the effective implementation of the New Agenda.

The following is a chronological index of proposals, meetings, and publications related to UNPAAERD, from its inception to the final assessment, including proposals for future action. In compiling this index, extensive efforts were made to solicit and include documents from the various organizations and individuals most prominently involved. It is from those contributions, along with the appropriate selections of the UNPAAERD Secretariat, that this body of materials was assembled.

Mr. Ji Chaozhu
Under-Secretary-General
Department of Economic and Social Development
